FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEW MEXICO

Plaintiff,

vs.

CIV. NO. ____-____ MCA/____

_____,

Defendant.

STOCK JURY INSTRUCTIONS
FOR CIVIL TRIALS BEFORE
THE HONORABLE M. CHRISTINA ARMIJO

Revised and Effective April 12, 2007

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.01

MEMBERS OF THE JURY:

You have now heard all of the evidence in this case.

It becomes my duty, therefore, to instruct you on the rules of law that you must follow and apply in arriving at your decision in the case.

In any jury trial there are, in effect, two judges. I am one of the judges; the other is the jury. It is my duty to preside over the trial and to determine what evidence is relevant under the law for your consideration. It is also my duty at the end of the trial to instruct you on the law applicable to the case.

These instructions will be given to you for use in the jury room, so you need not take notes.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.02

You, as jurors, are the judges of the facts. But in determining what actually happened in this case -- that is, in reaching your decision as to the facts -- it is your sworn duty to follow the law I am now in the process of defining for you.

And you must follow all of my instructions as a whole. You have no right to disregard or give special attention to any one instruction, or to question the wisdom or correctness of any rule I may state to you. That is, you must not substitute or follow your own idea or opinion as to what the law is or ought to be. It is your duty to apply the law as I give it to you, regardless of the consequences.

By the same token it is also your duty to base your verdict solely upon the evidence in the case, without prejudice or sympathy.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.03

This case should be considered and decided by you as an action between persons of equal standing in the community, of equal worth, and holding the same or similar stations in life. All persons stand equal before the law, and are to be dealt with as equals in a court of justice.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.04A

In this civil action, Plaintiff _____ seeks compensation from Defendant(s) _____ for damages which Plaintiff claims were caused by _____.

[Plaintiff's summary of theories for recovery must be individually tailored for each case.]

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.04B

Defendant _____ denies Plaintiff's contentions under the claim of _____ and Defendant claims that _____.

[Defendant's summary of denials and affirmative defenses must be individually tailored for each case.]

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.05A

Although there is more than one Defendant in this action, it does not follow from that fact alone that if one is liable another is liable. Each Defendant is entitled to a fair consideration of that Defendant's own defense. You will decide each Defendant's case separately, as if each were a separate lawsuit.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.05B

Some of the parties in this case are corporations. A corporation is entitled to the same fair and unprejudiced treatment as an individual, and you should decide the case with the same impartiality as you would use in deciding a case between individuals.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.05C

This trial has been divided into two stages. We are now in the first stage of the trial, in which you will consider whether Defendant _____ violated Plaintiff's rights or committed the tort of _____ against Plaintiff. If your verdict during the first stage of the trial is that Defendant _____ violated Plaintiff's constitutional rights or committed the tort of _____, then the trial will proceed to a second stage, in which you will be asked to determine what damages, if any, should be awarded to Plaintiff.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.06

It is a general rule in civil cases that a Plaintiff must prove every essential part of his or her claims by a preponderance of the evidence. Similarly, a Defendant generally must prove every essential part of his or her affirmative defenses by a preponderance of the evidence in a civil case.

To prove by a preponderance of the evidence means to establish that something is more likely true than not true. When I say in these instructions that a party has the burden of proof, I mean that you must be persuaded that what is sought to be proved is more probably true than not true. Evenly balanced evidence is not sufficient.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.07

Plaintiff brings a claim of _____ against Defendant(s) _____ under the law of _____. In order for Plaintiff to prevail on his _____ claim with respect to Defendant _____, Plaintiff must prove each of the following elements by a preponderance of the evidence:

[Elements and definitions of claims and defenses must be individually tailored for each case.]

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.08

As stated earlier, it is your duty to determine the facts, and in so doing you must consider only the evidence I have admitted in the case. The term “evidence” includes the sworn testimony of the witnesses and the exhibits admitted in the record.

Remember that any statements, objections or arguments made by the lawyers are not evidence in the case. The function of the lawyers is to point out those things that are most significant or most helpful to their side of the case, and in so doing, to call your attention to certain facts or inferences that might otherwise escape your notice. In the final analysis, however, it is your own recollection and interpretation of the evidence that controls in the case. What the lawyers say is not binding upon you.

So, while you should consider only the evidence in the case, you are permitted to draw such reasonable inferences from the testimony and exhibits as you feel are justified in the light of common experience. In other words, you may make deductions and reach conclusions which reason and common sense lead you to draw from the facts which have been established by the testimony and evidence in the case.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.09

You may consider either direct or circumstantial evidence. “Direct evidence” is the testimony of one who asserts actual knowledge of a fact, such as an eye witness. “Circumstantial evidence” consists of proof of facts or circumstances which give rise to a reasonable inference of the truth of the fact sought to be proved. The law makes no distinction between the weight to be given to either direct or circumstantial evidence.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.10

Now, I have said that you must consider all of the evidence. This does not mean, however, that you must accept all of the evidence as true or accurate.

You are the sole judges of the credibility or “believability” of each witness and the weight to be given to the witness’ testimony. In weighing the testimony of a witness you should consider the witness’ relationship to the plaintiff or to the defendant; the witness’ interest, if any, in the outcome of the case; manner of testifying; opportunity to observe or acquire knowledge concerning the facts about which the witness testified; candor, fairness and intelligence; and the extent to which the witness has been supported or contradicted by other credible evidence or previous statements inconsistent with the witness’ present testimony. You may, in short, accept or reject the testimony of any witness in whole or in part.

Also, the weight of the evidence is not necessarily determined by the number of witnesses testifying as to the existence or non-existence of any fact. You may find that the testimony of a smaller number of witnesses as to any fact is more credible than the testimony of a larger number of witnesses to the contrary.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.11

A witness may be discredited or impeached by contradictory evidence or inconsistent conduct, or by evidence that at other times the witness has made material statements, under oath or otherwise, which are inconsistent with the present testimony of the witness.

If you believe that any witness has been impeached or discredited, it is your exclusive province to give the testimony of that witness only such credit as you may think it deserves.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.12A

The rules of evidence provide that if scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge might assist you in understanding the evidence or in determining a fact in issue, a witness qualified as an expert by knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education, may testify and state an expert opinion concerning such matters.

You should consider each expert opinion received in evidence in this case and give it such weight as you may think it deserves. If you should decide that the opinion of an expert witness is not based upon sufficient education and experience, or if you should conclude that the reasons given in support of the opinion are not sound, or that the opinion is outweighed by other evidence, then you may disregard the opinion entirely.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.12B

A medical witness may testify about statements concerning a person's medical history and condition that were made for purposes of diagnosis or treatment. Such statements are not evidence of their own truth, but they may be considered to show the information upon which the witness' diagnosis or medical opinion was based. To whatever extent the opinion of the witness is based upon such statements, you may consider the trustworthiness of the statements in determining the weight to be given to the witness' opinion.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.12C

A stipulation is an agreement between both sides that certain facts are true. A stipulation means simply that the Plaintiff and the Defendant accept the truth of a particular proposition or fact. Since there is no disagreement, there is no need for evidence apart from the stipulation.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.12D

Certain charts and summaries have been shown to you in order to help explain the facts disclosed by the books, records, and other documents which are in evidence in the case. Such charts or summaries are used for convenience. They are not themselves evidence or proof of any facts. If they do not correctly reflect the facts or figures shown by the evidence in the case, you should disregard these charts and summaries and determine the facts from the underlying evidence.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.12E

Deposition testimony is testimony that was taken under oath before trial and has been preserved in writing. This testimony is entitled to the same consideration that you give any other testimony at this trial.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.12F

Interrogatories are written questions asked by one party to another before trial and answered under oath. The questions and answers may be read at trial as evidence. The answers read to you are testimony under oath and are entitled to the same consideration that you give any other testimony.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. 12G

An attorney has the right to interview a witness for the purpose of learning what testimony the witness will give. The fact that the witness has talked to an attorney does not reflect adversely on the truth of such testimony.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.13A

Some evidence is admitted for a limited purpose only. When I instruct you that an item of evidence has been admitted for a limited purpose, you must consider it only for that limited purpose and for no other.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.13B

Evidence that a similar act was done at another time or on another occasion is not evidence or proof that the act was done in this case.

You may consider evidence of such similar acts done at other times or on other occasions for the limited purpose of showing _____'s [state of mind, knowledge, intent, motive, opportunity, plan, preparation, identity, or absence of mistake or accident] with respect to the claims or defenses at issue in this case.

Such evidence may not be considered for any other purpose whatsoever. You cannot use evidence of similar acts to reflect on _____'s character.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.14A

An act, omission, or condition is a “cause” of injury or harm if it contributes to bringing about the injury or harm, and if the injury or harm would not have occurred without it. It need not be the only explanation for the injury or harm, nor the reason that is nearest in time or place. It is sufficient if it occurs in combination with some other cause to produce the result. To be a “cause,” the act, omission, or condition, nonetheless, must be reasonably connected as a significant link to the injury or harm.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.14B

An independent intervening cause interrupts and turns aside a course of events and produces that which was not foreseeable as a result of an earlier act or omission.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.15

If you find for the Plaintiff on one or more of his claims, and against one or more Defendants on their defenses, you must then decide the issue of the Plaintiff's damages.

You are not to engage in any discussion of damages unless you have first determined that there is liability, as elsewhere covered in these instructions.

The fact that you are given instructions on damages is not to be taken as an indication as to whether the Court thinks damages should or should not be awarded.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. 16

Damages must be reasonable. If you should find that the Plaintiff is entitled to a verdict, you may award only those damages which will reasonably compensate the Plaintiff for the injuries that the Plaintiff has sustained as a result of the Defendant's conduct.

You are not permitted to award speculative damages. So, you are not to include in any verdict compensation for any prospective loss which, although possible, is not reasonably certain to occur in the future.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.17

You must not award compensatory damages more than once for the same injury. For example, if the Plaintiff prevails on more than one of Plaintiff's claims and establishes a dollar amount for Plaintiff's injuries, you must not award the Plaintiff any additional compensatory damages on each claim. The Plaintiff is only entitled to be made whole once, and may not recover more than plaintiff has lost. Of course, if different injuries are attributed to the separate claims, then you must compensate the Plaintiff fully for all injuries.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.18A

If you should decide in favor of Plaintiff on the question of liability, you must then fix the amount of money which will reasonably and fairly compensate Plaintiff for any of the following elements of damages proved by Plaintiff to have resulted from the wrongful conduct as claimed:

1. The value of lost earnings and the present cash value of earning capacity reasonably certain to be lost in the future.
2. The reasonable expense of necessary medical care, treatment, and services received, and the present cash value of the reasonable expenses of medical care, treatment, and services reasonably certain to be received in the future.
3. The reasonable value of necessary nonmedical expenses which have required as a result of the injury, and the present cash value of such nonmedical expenses reasonably certain to be required in the future.
4. The nature, extent, and duration of the injury.
5. The pain and suffering experienced, and reasonably certain to be experienced in the future, as a result of the injury.

The guide for you to follow in determining compensation for pain and suffering, if any, is the enlightened conscience of impartial jurors acting under the sanctity of your oath to compensate the plaintiff with fairness to all parties to this action.

Whether any of these elements of damages have been proved by the evidence is for you to determine. Your verdict must be based upon proof and not upon speculation, guess or conjecture. On the other hand, the law does not require that Plaintiff prove the amount of his losses with mathematical precision, but only with as much definiteness and accuracy as the circumstances permit.

Sympathy or prejudice for or against a party should not affect your verdict and is not a proper basis for determining damages.

[Damages instructions must be individually tailored for each case.]

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.18B

If you find that Plaintiff has established a right to recover from Defendant but that the Plaintiff suffered insignificant harm, you may award Plaintiff nominal damages. Nominal damages are a trivial sum of money, usually one cent or one dollar, awarded to a party who has established a right to recover but has not established that he is entitled to compensatory damages.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.18C

If you have found that Plaintiff is entitled to damages arising in the future, you must determine the amount of such damages. If these damages are of a continuing nature, you may consider how long they will continue.

As to loss of future earning ability, you may consider that some persons work all their lives and others do not and that a person's earnings may remain the same or may increase or decrease in the future.

In fixing the amount you may award for damages arising in the future, you must reduce the total of such damages by making allowance for the fact that any award you might make would, if properly invested, earn interest. You should, therefore, allow a reasonable discount for the earning power of such money and arrive at the present cash value of the total future damages, if any. Damages for any future pain and suffering are not to be so reduced.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. 18D

In fixing the amount of money which will reasonably and fairly compensate the Plaintiff, you are to consider that an injured person must exercise ordinary care to minimize or lessen his or her damages. Damages caused by the Plaintiff's failure to exercise such care cannot be recovered.

The burden of proof with respect to this issue is on the defendants.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.18E

According to a table of mortality, the life expectancy of [name] is [number] additional years. This figure is not conclusive. It is the average life expectancy of persons who have reached that age. This figure may be considered by you in connection with other evidence relating to the probable life expectancy of [name], including evidence of [name's] occupation, health, habits and other activities, bearing in mind that some persons live longer and some shorter than the average.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.19

If you find that the Plaintiff should recover compensation for damages, and if you further find that the conduct of any of the individual Defendants was malicious, willful, reckless, or wanton, then you may award punitive damages against that Defendant.

Malicious conduct is the intentional doing of a wrongful act with knowledge that the act was wrongful.

Willful conduct is the intentional doing of an act with knowledge that harm may result.

Reckless conduct is the intentional doing of an act with utter indifference to the consequences.

Wanton conduct is the doing of an act with utter indifference to or conscious disregard for a person's rights or safety.

Punitive damages are awarded for the limited purposes of punishment and to deter others from the commission of like offenses.

The amount of punitive damages must be based on reason and justice taking into account all the circumstances, including the nature of the wrong and such aggravating and mitigating circumstances as may be shown. The amount awarded, if any, must be reasonably related to the actual damages and injury and not disproportionate to the circumstances.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.20

After these instructions on the law governing the case, the lawyers may make closing arguments, or statements, on the evidence and the law. These summaries can be of considerable assistance to you in arriving at your decision and you should listen carefully. You may give them such weight as you think proper. However, neither these final discussions nor any other remarks or arguments of the attorneys made during the course of the trial are to be considered by you as evidence or as a correct statement of the law, if contrary to the law given in these instructions.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.21

Faithful performance by you of your duties is vital to the administration of justice.

Any verdict must represent the considered judgment of each juror. In order to return a verdict, it is necessary that each juror agree to it. In other words, your verdict must be unanimous.

It is your duty as jurors to consult with one another, and to deliberate in an effort to reach an agreement if you can do so without giving up your individual judgment. Each of you must decide the case for yourself, but only after an impartial consideration of all the evidence in the case with your fellow jurors. In the course of your deliberations, do not hesitate to re-examine your own views, and change your opinion, if convinced it is erroneous. But do not surrender your honest conviction as to the weight or effect of the evidence, solely because of the opinion of your fellow jurors, or for the mere purpose of returning a verdict.

Remember at all times you are not partisans. You are judges -- judges of the facts. Your sole interest is to seek the truth from the evidence in the case.

STOCK INSTRUCTION NO. CIV.22

Upon retiring to the jury room you should first elect a foreperson who will preside over your deliberations and will be your spokesperson here in court.

If, during your deliberations, you should desire to communicate with me, please put your message or question in writing on one of the forms that my court staff will provide to you. Your note should be signed by the foreperson and then passed to the court security officer who will bring it to my attention. I will then respond as promptly as possible, either in writing or by having you returned to the courtroom. I caution you, however, with regard to any message or question you might send, that you should never state your numerical division.

A form of verdict has been prepared for your convenience. You will take the verdict form to the jury room and when you have reached unanimous agreement as to your verdict, you will have your foreperson fill in, date and sign it. The completed, signed verdict form should then be placed in the envelope that will be provided to you. After completing the verdict form, please also send a note to the court security officer indicating that you have reached a verdict and are ready to return to the courtroom. Again, any notes you pass to the court security officer should not state what your verdict is or how you have voted.

DATED this _____ day of _____, 2_____.
